

WHO TO HIRE FOR CREATIVE

Written by a studio, so read it with that in mind. We have tried to be fair: each option is the right answer for some brand at some stage.

BEST FIT

- ☐ Freelancer: one skill, clear brief, you can direct
- ☐ Project studio: a launch, a film, a website, fixed scope
- ☐ Monthly retainer: steady content in one visual system
- ☐ In-house: daily output, deep product knowledge
- ☐ Big agency: multi-channel campaigns and media buying

WHAT GOES WRONG

- ☐ Freelancer: availability, and a single style
- ☐ Project studio: momentum stops when the project does
- ☐ Retainer: paying through quiet months
- ☐ In-house: one person stretched across film, web and design
- ☐ Big agency: minimum budgets, slow turnarounds

ASK ANY OF THEM

- ☐ Who exactly does the work?
- ☐ What is included, and what is extra?
- ☐ How many revision rounds?
- ☐ Who owns the files at the end?
- ☐ What happens if we stop?

WHAT MATTERS MOST

One owner on your side, one written brief, and rounds agreed up front. That decides the result more than who you hire.